Hundreds Honor Soldier Dead at Frankfort

In spite of the rainy day, hundreds of persons attended the open air Memorial Day exercises held at Frankfort on Thursday afternoon.

Promptly at 1:30 p. m. a parade started from the school grounds and marched to the Pleasant Hill Cemetery. The village board members, the Wm. Martin Post No. 725 V. F. W., and the Ladies Auxiliary of this Post, the Frankfort school band, the school children and a large concourse of citizens attended the services in the cemetery. The Veterans of Foreign Wars conducted a ceremony. Mayor George Sangmeister read the roll call. Mrs. Wm. Groves of Mokena sang the official V. F. W. song "Sleep Soldier Boy" with a feeling which elicited many comments of admiration.

Rev. C. F. Schellhase, pastor of the Frankfort M. E. church gave the address. Taps were sounded by Mr. Wight and Robert Klepper.

The school children decorated the soldiers graves with flags and flowers.

Returning to the school grounds the main part of the Memorial celebration was carried out.

The Frankfort school band, the school children and the audience furnished the songs and music. Reuben Schellhase sang "Land of Hope and Glory".

Judge George Blatt of the Will County Court was the speaker of the day and spoke of the government of our country bringing out the points of its superiority over the old world nations.

Commander Floyd Slagle of the Wm. Martin Post V. F. W. read General Logan's order No. 11 establishing Memorial Day. Mrs. Floyd Slagle, president of the V. F. W. Auxiliary read a meditation on "The Unknown Soldier."

An amplifying system carried the program to all parts of the grounds. Arthur Lambrecht was the chairman of the day.

Rev. G. Gerhold, pastor of the St. Peter's Evangelical church offered the invocation at the cemetery and the benediction at the school grounds.

The entire program was packed with patriotism and was a credit to its sponsors.

United Unemployed News

The regular meeting of the Mokena Unit of The United Unemployed, was held Tuesday, May 28th.

The meeting was well attended. President Tom Moore presiding.

Mrs. A. Lorenz was appointed, temporarily to fill the vacancy of one of the absent Trustees. Miss Wanda Hall was unanimously elected to the office of Trustee for the term of one year.

A committee was selected to take charge of arrangements for a card and bunco party. Date of this party will be announced later.

The Unit is striving to have Projects started quickly in this locality, and hope soon to be able to call themselves the "Employed of the Unemployed".

An urgent call is sent to members who have failed to attend more than the one meeting, when they applied for membership. There's a special reason why the Unit should know if those mentioned above, do not care to continue active membership. Inform the Secretary, not late.

H. C. MELCHOR OF ORLAND PARK TAKEN BY DEATH

The Orland Park territory was deeply grieved and shocked Sunday when the news came that Harry Case Melchor, one of their esteemed citizens, had passed away at the Woodlawn hospital in Chicago following a recent operation from which he had shown a good chance of recovery, but unforeseen complications developed suddenly and a turn for the worst set in Saturday.

Mr. Melchor spent a few weeks in Florida before he underwent the operation.

Mr. Melchor who was born in Paw Paw, Michigan fifty-three years ago, came to Orland Park in 1926 and built a beautiful modern home in the southwest part of the village. He was vitally interested in civic affairs and was largely instrumental in drafting and having the Orland Park village board pass a zoning ordinance. Only a few weeks ago he was active in having an amendment made and passed to the zoning ordinance to make it conform to certain state changes. He served as chairman of the zoning committee of the Orland Park village board since its appointment.

Mr. Melchor was a man of high ideals and principles and will be greatly missed in his community.

As a mark of respect, the Orland Park village board cut their meeting short Monday night and went to Chicago in a body to view the remains which lay in state at the undertaking parlors at 6110 Cottage Grove Ave.

Surviving are his wife, Inez Katherine, his mother, Mrs. Harriett Case Bennett of Kalamazoo, Michigan.

Mr. Melchor was a Mason and a Shriner.

Funeral services were held Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock at the chapel on Cottage Grove avenue before mentioned, with Rev. Paul T. Sanders of the Orland Southwest Community Center Foundation officiating. The body was then shipped to Paw Paw, Michigan for burial in the family lot in the cemetery of that city.

As Mr. Melchor always appeared robust and in good health his sudden demise came as a great shock.

He was engaged in business in Chicago under the firm name of the Western Rubber Co., located at 407 South Dearborn St.

Orland Woman's Club to Meet

The June meeting of the Orland Park Woman's Club will be held at Creer's Hall, Thursday the sixth at 2:00 p. m. After an important business meeting, Mr. Robert Bogue, instructor at Hull House in Chicago, will speak on the history of Hull House, its present program and future outlook.

Tinley Woman's Club Scrap Book Takes State Prize

Mrs. Wm. Semmler, wife of the editor, captured high honors for the Tinley Park Woman's Club in her capacity as press and publicity chairman when the scrap book recording all the activities of the club for the year as compiled by her with the able assistance of Mrs. Grace Hanam of Tinley Park, won first prize in the state exhibit of Woman's Clubs scrap books for clubs of a membership of fifty or less. The prize winning scrap book of the Tinley Park Woman's Club will also be exhibited at the national convention of Women's Clubs to be held in Detroit.

Mrs. Semmler and the prize winning scrap book were featured in a writeup in the metropolitan section of last Sunday's Chicago Tribune.

Orland Legion Holds Memorial Service

The Orland Park Legion Post conducted Memorial services at the community flag pole Thursday morning. A speaker secured thru the Speakers Bureau of the Cook County Council of the American Legion gave the address.

Members of the Post gathered at the Legion Hall from where they marched under command of Commander Wm. Little to the place of the exercises.

Following the exercises the Post proceeded to the Cooper Cemetery for services. The services at the Palos Oak Hills cemetery were held at 2 p. m. er than the next meeting, Tuesday, June 4th, at 8 o'clock.

I paid mine, otherwise I would have been suspended after 90 days. "I cannot draw a cart, nor eat; If it be man's work I will do it".

Your's, Unit Scribe.

Orland Lutheran Church Picnic Sun.

The Orland Park Christ Lutheran congregation will hold their annual church and school picnic this Sunday afternoon.

The picnic will start at 2:00 p. m. (D.S.T.) The children of our Day school and Sunday school, led by drummers, will meet at the Lutheran school and will march in a body to the picnic grove on 143rd street.

The children will at the beginning of the picnic render a patriotic number which will be followed by recitations, songs and a flag drill. This will be followed by races, contests and games with prizes to the winners.

Lunches and refreshments will be served on the grounds at nominal prices. A hearty welcome to our friends to picnic with us. To get the full benefit of the picnic let us try to be there for the children's program at 2 o'clock and take part in all activities.

Tinley Legion Honor Departed Comrades

At Tinley Park the Legion Post honored their departed comrades by decorating their graves with flags and flowers in the forenoon in the four cemeteries around Tinley Park and in the afternoon special services were held at the grave of comrade Wm. Garster in the Tinley Park cemetery with Rev. Mr. Frick of the Bachelor Grove Lutheran church officiating.

Oliver Bundy Dies In Niles, Michigan, Hospital Suddenly

Oliver Bundy, aged 43 years, son of the late Jane Bundy nee McGovney, died in a hospital in Niles, Michigan Monday following a brief illness caused by pneumonia. Mr. Bundy resided near South Bend. He was employed by an electrical company.

His grandparents Wilson and Emily McGovney were well known early residents of Mokena and when a small boy Mr. Bundy stayed for a while with his grandmother and attended the old Mokena school. His mother passed away two years ago and was brought to Mokena for burial in the Marshall cemetery west of Mokena.

Mr. Bundy is survived by his wife Ruth, two sons, two daughters and one sister Wanda of South Bend.

Funeral services were held in a funeral chapel in South Bend Wednesday. The body was shipped to Mokena Thursday and interment was made in the Marshall cemetery with services conducted at the grave at 11:30 a. m., by Rev. Walter Gray of the Mokena M. E. church.

All Set For Tinley Flower Show

At our flower show to be held June 20th, 1935, perfection of bloom will be flowers in Section one Class one.

Only one flower in a container. This should be a milk bottle either large or small according to the size of the flower.

A nice long stem is required and the foliage should be as nearly perfect as the bloom.

Many times flowers are entered at shows without foliage and are not judged for that reason.

This should be three flowers of one kind and of the same color and as nearly perfect as can be.

Mrs. Harry Mager, chairman of this section and she will be glad to receive all flowers in this class at our show.

If anyone would like to exhibit and are in doubt of their entries, please call her for information.

Section 2
Class one
Flowers artistically arranged in large baskets.

Class two.
Flowers artistically arranged in large baskets.

Class three.
Wild flowers only arranged in baskets.

Do not over crowd the baskets.
Do not have any fancy ribbon or ornament on basket.

Do not have flowers too tall in the basket.

Mrs. Bert Fulton, chairman of our flower show will be given next week.

Mokena Streets Being Repaired

Mokena's badly worn out streets are undergoing much needed repairs and will be like boulevards when the work of resurfacing them is finished. The front street is being cut down 8 inches and will be retopped with asphalt composition known as "black top". The county road building outfit is on the job now.

MOKENA PAYS TRIBUTE TO HEROES OF PAST

The rain on Memorial Day did not prevent the celebrating of that day in Mokena for there was a large gathering of people who went to the Mokena school auditorium where at 10:30 a. m., the program opened with Mr. Gerald Dunn, principal of the Mokena school as chairman.

Rev. Theodore Haeefe, pastor of the St. John Evangelical church offered the invocation after the popular Frankfort school band had played several selections. The band, had previous to the opening of the program, marched around Mokena for a short time, playing. In all the renditions, the band did fine work and their interpretations were well executed. The band is coming along wonderfully under the splendid leadership of Mr. Wight of Joliet.

Commander Floyd Slagle of Wm. Martin Post No. 725 of the V. F. W. read General Logan's order establishing Memorial Day, following the presentation of the colors by the post.

Mrs. Floyd Slagle, president of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Wm. Martin Post gave a meditation entitled "The Unknown Soldier".

Wm. Semmler, editor of The News-Bulletin, which paper sponsored the celebration, read the roll call of all the soldiers buried in the three local cemeteries, which was followed by "Taps" sounded by Don C. Hall, Jr.

The school children had their part in the program, singing "America the Beautiful".

The male quartet of the St. John Evangelical church, composed of Rev. Mr. Haeefe, Lawrence Kohl, Leon Tonn and Frank Hirsch, Jr., sang "Tenting To-night."

The address of the morning was given by Attorney Charles Elder, instructor of Law in Northwestern University and a resident of Mokena. His line of thought showed much research work and thought. It was masterfully worked out and delivered. Mr. Elder dwelt to some extent on the battle of Gettysburg, showing the undaunted spirit of the Boys in Blue and how the same battle field was at the close of the war, set aside as a cemetery, it being the place where President Lincoln delivered his immortal "Gettysburg address."

Mr. Elder spoke of the government of our country, comparing it to all other countries of the world, thereby bringing out the superiority of this country, even with its flaws.

In closing, the "Star Spangled" gle of depression we are still battling with, he scorned those who live under the idea of "getting every thing they can out of the government because others are doing it, so they might as well also." He pointed out that the government is not compelled to take care of its citizenry as it is the citizenry who are the government. It is a privilege of the government and it's desire to help those of its citizens who are disabled thru military service or who are unable to help themselves just now because of the depression. It was a very timely address and gave much food for thought.

In closing the "Star Spangled Banner" was sung by the audience, accompanied by the band, following which the colors were retired. Rev. Mr. Haeefe pronounced the benediction.

A goodly number of school children carried flags and flowers and were conveyed to the several cemeteries in autos driven by Paul Rinke, Mr. G. Dunn, Mrs. Wm. Semmler and Don C. Hall, Jr. Under the direction of Editor Semmler a flag and flower was placed on each soldier's grave in the St. John Cemetery, the Old Cemetery and St. Mary's Cemetery. At the latter cemetery the Wm. Martin Post No. 725 held a special service at the grave of Wm. Martin for whom the Post is named. Mrs. Wm. Groves sang the official V. F. W. song "Sleep Soldier Boy". "Taps" were sounded at the conclusion of the decoration of the graves in each cemetery by Don C. Hall, Jr.

It was the end of what appeared to be a perfect celebration honoring our dead heroes.

Frankfort School Commencement Sat.

The annual commencement exercises of the Frankfort public school will be held in the school auditorium on Saturday evening, June 1st. The complete program is printed in this issue on page 6.

Orland Banker Back From Hospital

George E. Gee, cashier of the Orland State Bank who has been very ill for sometime in the German Deaconess hospital in Chicago, is improving nicely. He was brought home last Friday but is still under the nurse's care. His many friends hope for a speedy recovery.

The Conquering Spirit

The true American spirit that will not be downed is what led us into those wars from which we came forth victors. Because everything has a price, and victory perhaps the greatest of all, we lost thousands of men who fought our cause. It is to them that we go Memorial Day bearing flowers of tribute. In honor of those men who have preserved our United States.

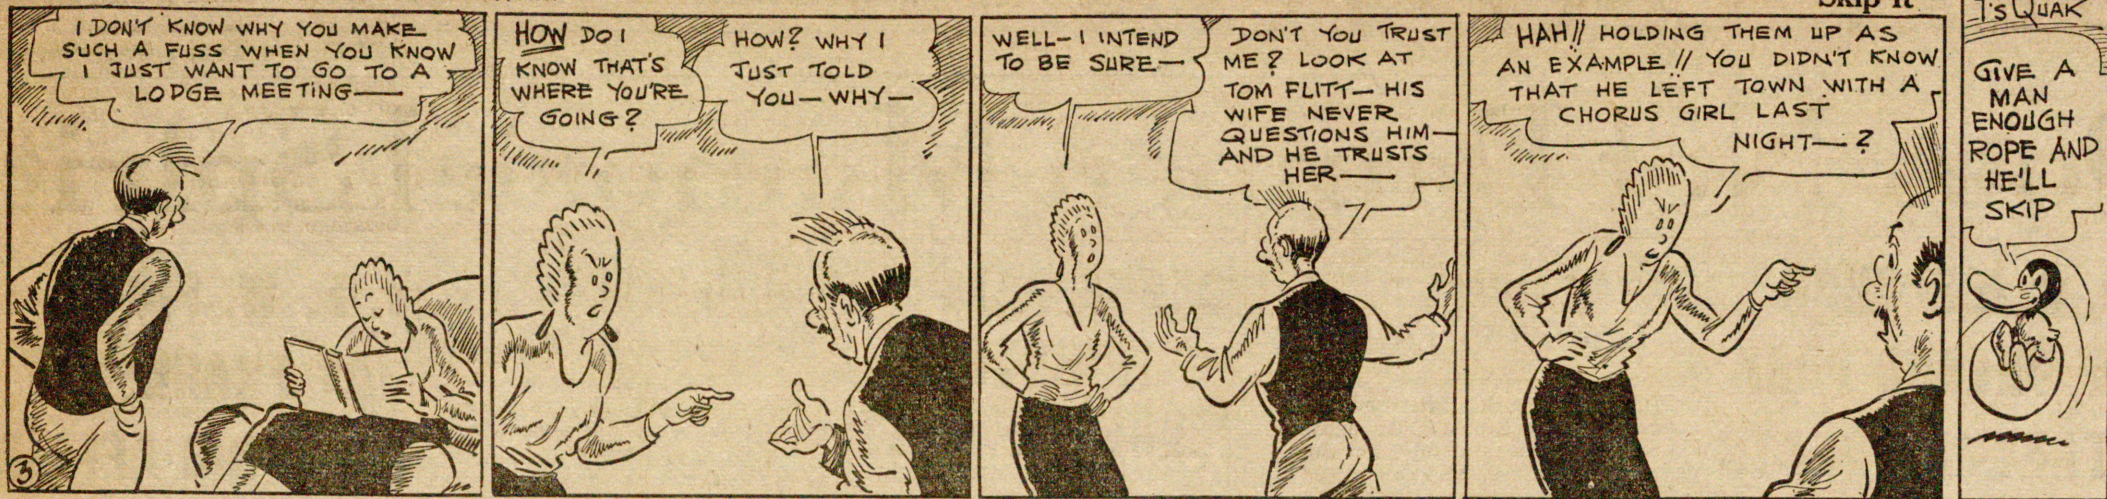

"A song for our Banner!" The watchword recall Which gave the Republic her station: "United we stand, divided we fall!" It made and preserved us a nation!

"The union of lakes, the union of lands, The union of States none can sever, The union of hearts, the union of hands, And the Flag of our Union forever!"

ATTRACTIVE IN ITS SIMPLICITY

PATTERN 2201

Here is a frock to make those numerous home chores pleasurable. Its nice simplicity applies not only to its making—which is easy in the extreme, as denoted by the sketch of the garment spread open—but also to the laundering problem. A run of the iron and it is again fresh and immaculate, doing its bit graciously to keep you in trim. Its lovely, freedom-giving design lends itself well to the new cottons in stripes, plaids, checks or floral prints—so well, in fact, that you'll likely repeat the pattern in many fabrics. The smart yoke which includes the sleeve effect is decidedly becoming.

Pattern 2201 is available in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 36 takes 3½ yards 35 inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included. SEND FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Write plainly name, address, and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE. Address orders to Sewing Circle Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York City.

GOLDEN DAWN

SYNOPSIS

Theodore Gatlin adopts a baby, "Penelope," in an effort to solve his matrimonial troubles. But his wife has never wanted her, and their affairs end in the divorce court. At a baseball game a ball strikes ten-year-old Penelope on the nose. Mrs. Gatlin spirits the child to Europe. Gatlin wills Penelope all his money, and is about to begin a search for her when a motor accident ends his life. Some ten years later, in San Francisco, Stephen Burt, rising young psychiatrist, is presented by Dan McNamara, chief of police, with a new patient—Nance Belden, a girl with a dual personality, for which her "saddle nose" is in part responsible. McNamara does not think she is a criminal and obtains Burt's testimony in court. Lanny, the doctor's office nurse, is also won over. Nance's criminal record outweighs Doctor Burt's explanation of her case and she is sent to San Quentin penitentiary. Nance escapes, although shot, and goes to Lanny's apartment, from which, by McNamara's orders, she is removed to the chief's home. From one of the men in the boat on which the girl escaped McNamara learns that Nance's real name is Penelope Gatlin. He also discovers that she is heiress to $750,000. Fearful of McNamara, in his official capacity, Nance flees. Lanny finds her in her apartment, sound asleep. Several days later her partially restored memory leads her to tell Lanny of her wealthy father, Theodore Gatlin, and of her girlhood in France.

"We've been like two pups, chasing our tails," Angellotti complained when they met at their car. "The chief's up to his old tricks, babying a convict with the con, and that's the bird Doctor Burt is calling to treat."

"The girl's been there, just the same, Amadeo, my boy. There was a lipstick on the bureau and that's something old lady McNamara don't use. And I found a roll of adhesive, the heel of a roll of bandage and a soiled sheet with some bloodstains on it in the dirty clothes basket in the bathroom."

Angellotti was convinced. "Where did she go?"

"She might have doubled back to that old nurse's house again, but I doubt that, because she knows that's risky."

"Well, let's give Miss Lanning's house a prow, anyhow."

Flynn was one of those hearty fellows who will try anything twice, so they went immediately to Lanny's house. The lights in front were out when they arrived, so Flynn pussy-footed around to the rear of the cottage to see if any lights were lighted there. Finding none, he listened for possible voices. Hearing none, he cautiously lifted the lid off Lanny's garbage can and bent his flashlight on it. He was rewarded for his courage by finding a stained bandage with clipped adhesive tape clinging to it. This tell-tale evidence he carried around to Angellotti; they entered their car, drove a block and inspected the clue in the light of the dash lamp. Then they silently shook hands.

"Nothing is ever lost if you know where it is," Flynn rejoiced. "I'm going to get my missus a winter coat with my half of the reward. We'll bone the district attorney for a search warrant tomorrow, and tomorrow night when the old lady gets home, we'll make the pinch."

"Shall we pinch her as an accessory?"

"Amadeo, my boy, unless you're looking hard for something, it's a mistake to see too much or know too much. This Lanning woman is a friend of the chief's. As far as the public ever need know we picked the girl up on the street."

Angellotti nodded his acquiescence; they got the search warrant on the strength of that soiled bandage, and at nine o'clock that night arrived in their car. Flynn went to the back door and posted himself there; and Angellotti rang the front doorbell. A light was switched on in the hall presently, and Lanny, dressed for the street, opened the door six inches. Angellotti had his foot in it in a flash.

"Detective Sergeant Angellotti of the central station, Miss Lanning. I have here a search warrant, giving me legal right to search your house and secure the person of Nance Belden, an escaped convict from San Quentin penitentiary. Read it an' weep!"

"You take your big flat foot out of my door and stay outside until I've read this purported search warrant or I'll shoot your foot off," Lanny informed him coldly. Angellotti withdrew his foot promptly, Lanny closed the door, and he could see her faintly through the curtained glass, reading.

"Come in," she invited—and at that moment the electric light bulb tossed out the upper window by Nance exploded with a loud report. "What's that?" Angellotti cried, instantly alert. A still louder explosion reverberated in the back yard; then the voice of Flynn crying: "Hey, stop, or I'll shoot."

"Tried slippin' her out the back door, eh?" Angellotti exclaimed, and dashed through the house, with Lanny at his heels. As he went out the kitchen door, Lanny slammed and bolted it behind him, and then, even as Dan McNamara had predicted, nature took her course. Nance dropped the remainder of the bombs and came dashing down the stairs. "Good-by, Lanny, darling," she cried happily. "We'll meet again." Lanny switched off the hall light, and Nance was through the front door and gone. Across the street two coupes stood at the curb, the motors of both turning over slowly.

Alternately the girl's finger was pointed at each car. "My—mother—told-me—to—take—this—one," she murmured, and when, through the aid of this childhood formula, she had made her decision, she leaped into the coupe of Messrs. Flynn and Angellotti and went rapidly away. Lanny, watching her from the darkened doorway, saw that she had taken the wrong car, but was afraid to cry out and warn her. So she did the next best thing. She locked her front door behind her, climbed into the other car and drove down town to a late motion picture show. She carried the search warrant with her and while enjoying the show tore it into little bits.

Of the weeping, the groaning, the burning sensations in the eyelids, the bewilderment, the groping, vomiting, cursing and despair of Messrs. Flynn and Angellotti nothing need be said. Suffice that Angellotti felt his way out of the gassed area and about two minutes after Lanny's departure, stationed himself on her front steps, while the valiant Flynn, dying a thousand deaths, stuck manfully at his post, leaning up against the kitchen door, enduring for duty's sake. Convinced they had Nance Belden cornered, they waited for the night wind to dissipate the gas. Angellotti ceased to weep about half an hour after escaping from the gassed area, but continued to gag for an hour. About ten-thirty he was able to see, so he rang Lanny's bell repeatedly, but received no answer. Then he noticed that their car was missing, so he summoned the martyred Flynn around front and told him the worst.

"Don't speak to me," Flynn commanded passionately. "I'm dead! Hunt up an all-night drug store an' phone for a taxi."

"This," Angellotti hissed, "is Dan McNamara's work. Where would they get the bombs if he didn't swipe 'em out of the police arsenal?"

"What's That?" Angellotti Cried, Instantly Alert.

Flynn commenced to sob as he considered the barren fruits of his enormous sacrifice.

"Amadeo, swear to me, by our common faith, that, come what will, blow high, blow low, come sickness or sorrow, happiness or health, you'll never lay off this job until we've landed that—that huzzy."

"Right! I swear," Angellotti's voice trembled with the sincerity of his purpose.

The respective wives of the worthy pair telephoned down to the chief of the detectives next morning and informed him that their husbands were confined to bed with influenza. It might not be amiss, also, to state that Lanny came home in a taxi about twelve-thirty, and finding the front door free of Angellotti, and the neighborhood ozone quite restored to normalcy, retired to her bed and passed almost at once into dreamless and untroubled sleep.

It was not a police car in which Nance had escaped, but the private vehicle of Detective Sergeant Flynn, and its loss troubled him until the car was found, abandoned, out in the Mission, about twenty-four hours later. A glance at the speedometer comforted Flynn. The car had been driven six miles. In company with Angellotti (both now happily recovered from their terrible experience) he drove in the same car from Lanny's house, via the most direct route, to the point where a patrolman had picked up the car; thence via the route followed by the patrolman when he came off duty and drove the car to the central station and reported it. The mileage was six and two-tenths miles!

"She's holed up within a block or two of where she left the car," Flynn decided.

"Not such a cold trail, after all," Angellotti exclaimed. "We'll just have to patrol the neighborhood in our off moments. I'm sure the girl doesn't know she swiped your car, and that she gave us a clue to follow her."

"If crooks didn't make mistakes and give us the breaks, my boy, you and I wouldn't be where we are," Flynn reminded him. "I think it might be a good idea to interview the druggist in the neighborhood and see if she's been in to buy a new lipstick."

A round of the neighboring drug stores, however, proved barren of a new lead, and as they had other matters claiming their attention, they were forced to abandon the search that day.

Dan McNamara was much too intelligent to make inquiries of the assistant district attorney who had issued the search warrant, but when informed that Flynn and Angellotti were down with flu he called up Lanny at Stephen's office, and received a meticulous report. "You say the girl fled in the car my dicks arrived in?" he queried. "That's terrible. A description of the car must have been broadcast to all outlying police and the surrounding country stations immediately by Flynn and Angellotti, and Nance will be picked up somewhere down state."

"We've done our damndest," Lanny replied cheerfully. "Angels can do no more. I borrowed the car you left out front. It's in a garage. I'll send you the claim check."

For a week, the chief waited for news of Nance Belden, but no news came through beyond some gossip around the central station that the car had been driven but three miles and then abandoned—for which evidence that the Almighty was still on his side the worthy fellow was grateful.

So Nance was still in the city! McNamara's mind worked so automatically he did not even have to tell himself that, undoubtedly, she had taken sanctuary within a short distance of the spot where she had abandoned Flynn's car, nor did he have to remind himself that Flynn and Angellotti would come to the same conclusion. He had no difficulty in ascertaining the spot where the car had been recovered.

"Folsom street and Sixteenth, eh?" he reflected. "Residential—flat buildings and cheap apartment houses, cheap rooming houses and working-men's hotels. No, she wouldn't go to one of those. Not what she is—she has class—and she has two hundred dollars in her possession. She's holed up with a friend. What friend? Why, Ella Cates, of course."

He had already secured Ella Cates' address from the banker in San Jose. However, he realized it would not be wise to call upon her and run the risk of having Flynn or Angellotti run across him in the neighborhood or see him entering Ella Cates' house. The obvious thing, therefore, was to cast about for a job in another part of the city and see that both detectives were assigned to it. If he sent them out of the city for a day or two they might suspect his purpose and have some other dick friend of theirs shadow him during their absence.

While he was considering where he could dispose of them, the president of the Security Trust company in San Jose rang up.

"Miss Penelope Gatlin has just been in the bank, Chief," he told McNamara. "She has purchased a letter of credit for ten thousand dollars and has withdrawn in cash the remainder of the funds on deposit to the credit of her checking account, amounting to eleven hundred dollars."

"Is she in the bank now?"

"Yes."

"Have one of your clerks follow her. Give him some expense money—I'll be responsible for its repayment. And when you get his report please telephone me."

At three-thirty the banker telephoned again. "She purchased a ticket to San Francisco on one of the buses leaving here at three-fifteen. She spent two hours shopping."

The buses, McNamara knew, entered the city via Mission street, the bus depot was at Fifth and Mission streets. Ella Cates lived on Howard street, between Fifteenth and Sixteenth. Howard street runs between Mission and Folsom—and Flynn's car had been found abandoned at Sixteenth and Folsom. Nance was smart. She had left the car a block from Ella Cates' home and walked there. McNamara reasoned the incoming bus would drop the girl off at Sixteenth and Mission streets—a regular stop—and she would then make her way to the Cates woman's house.

He glanced at his watch. He had an hour and a half to intercept her; for that hour and a half he must have Flynn and Angellotti in another section of the city. To his annoyance he discovered they were out on a detail, so he decided he would have to risk it, called a taxi and drove to Ella Cates' address. He discovered it to be a cheap wooden apartment house, but the directory in the vestibule gave him no information as to which apartment Ella Cates lived in, so he rang the landlady's bell and the door opened to admit him. To his inquiry regarding Mrs. Cates, he was informed that she had moved to parts unknown a week before, nor could his informant give him any clue to aid him in discovering her.

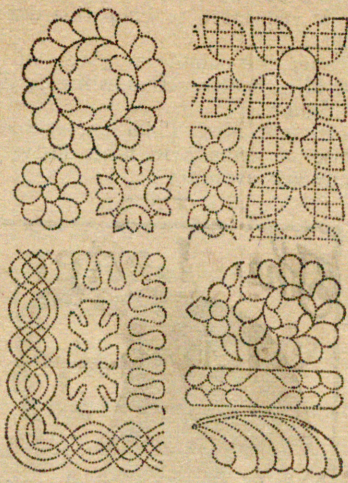

As he came out of the apartment house he glanced warily around and was amused to observe Detective Angellotti leaning against a cigar stand across the street. He was certain the detective had recognized him, for Angellotti immediately turned his back. The chief walked up to Mission street, boarded a street car and was at the bus terminus two minutes before the bus on which Nance had left San Jose rolled in. But Nance was not among the passengers that alighted.

Ancient Festival Goes On

At Aix en Provence, France, was instituted the first Roman garrison in Gaul. The church of Monte Sainte Victoire perpetuates a victory of Marius. Every April 24 there is a procession from Bauvargues to the mountain to light a bonfire. This, the festival of Marius, is one of the oldest still existing.

Make Selection for Your Quilt

By GRANDMOTHER CLARK

Each patch work or applique quilt requires quilting, and a design should be selected that harmonizes with the design used in the patches. Space for quilting also varies, and the women who do this work should have quite an assortment of quilting designs on hand from which to make a selection. We have pictured three different sets of perforated quilting patterns in past issues.

The above twelve patterns are not perforated. They are, however, printed in dots on perforating bond paper and must be perforated with a pin, which can be done in about ten minutes for each pattern. The patterns are eight times as large as the illustrations above.

Package No. 31A contains these twelve patterns, with cotton and blue powder for stamping; also full instructions how to perforate and stamp them will be mailed to you postpaid upon receipt of 15c.

TINLEY PARK

James Durkee, former local radio station manager, surprised his Tinley friends by unexpectedly calling on them Wednesday. He had been in Washington, D. C., and attended a radio meeting at Stevens hotel in Chicago that evening.

Mr. Durkee is radio engineer for 15 radio stations with his headquarters at Bartlesville, Oklahoma. Most of these radio stations are operated by oil companies.

Mr. Durkee's Tinley friends are pleased to see him and to learn of his success in his radio work.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Boldt who are in charge of the T.Y.O. Boys and Girls clubs are planning a big 4th of July celebration. Watch for further particulars.

The annual commencement exercises of the Tinley Park public school will be held June 11th.

The R. N. A., held a social meeting Tuesday evening.

John C. Andres, our genial banker, celebrated his birthday Wednesday.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cowing two daughters and a son Tuesday. The triplets, however, died on Wednesday.

The regular meeting of the P. T. A., will be held at the school Friday, June 7th at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. Morrison, the new district director will be the speaker. Everyone welcome, especially all mothers who have children entering school for their first year.

Heman R. Freitag and family are moving into Dr. Snyder's old residence.

Dr. Carl E. Schultz who recently opened a dental parlor in Tinley Park, spent last Sunday together with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Schultz and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Habeger at the home of Rev. and Mrs. C. H. Hedler.

Rev. C. H. Hedler was called to Michigan City, Ind., this week to conduct funeral services for a friend who was a member of the congregation he served in that city in 1932.

T. Y. O. GIRLS

The meeting of the T. Y. O. Girls was held May 24th at the home of Anna Schaffer. The next meeting is to be held at Cassie Hirsch's May 31st at 8:00 p. m.

Maggie says that she is still using the handkerchief that she used three months ago. Why don't you give it a surprise party once in a while?

Who will bring a bat and who will bring a ball to our next meeting, says our president Fern.

What's this I hear about Loretta and Kelly

Boy! do we like banana splits providing somebody else pays for them. Bing! Bang! Boom! Don't forget the big 4th of July parade, picnic and dance given by the T. Y. O. Boys and Girls at Lorenz picnic grove and dance hall.

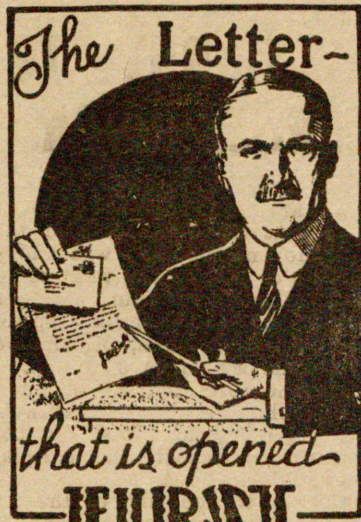

T. Y. O. Boys and Girls are planning a big time for all on the 4th of July. Everyone watch this paper for further news. If any of the surrounding towns are planning big times on the Fourth kindly contact H. Boldt, Tinley Park, so the parades will not interfere with each other.

DEPENDABLE REPRESENTATIVES FOR ALL OR PART-TIME IN THIS COMMUNITY

I am the sales-manager of a successful business of national scope. The nature of this business is such that I can offer men and women of standing in their community a profitable and congenial way of adding to their income on a part-time basis, or to establish a lucrative business of their own if in a position to devote their entire time to the work I have in mind.

These duties bring our representatives in touch with the best business and professional elements of the community. The work is dignified, and I give every field representative my personal assistance; in fact, I consider our field agents as one of the most important divisions of this large business.

Write to me briefly about yourself and your experience. Your letter will come directly to my desk and will receive my personal attention.

Where It Is 3 1/2
Years to Pay

Robert Morris, "Forgotten" Prince in One of Illinois' "Ghost School" and Two of His Tiny Charges

Robert Morris, principal of a dilapidated schoolhouse in Hamilton County, Tenn., came out of the photograph with a look of his sleeves was empty. His clothes were old, shiny and each month?" he was asked. "Money?" he replied. "I've only been on the year. This district pays me with orders. They're condoned. I'll get my first the about three and a half beat. "How do you manage to get up with a wan smile, he asked. Mr. Morris didn't wait for a picture taken. He was, he said, sensitive about his clothes. But a suasion won. The holes in the schoolhouse assure plenty of ventilation. Salaries have been cut about in half no school supplies have been bought for the last three years; the janitor has been dismissed.

Why "Typhoid Nurse" Is Giving 'Em Shots

Top, "drinking cistern" at Saline county school fed from schoolhouse roof. Center, toilet at the Farris school, Hamilton county. (No door is needed.) Bottom, an old oaken bucket type of insanitary school well in Jackson county with some of kids getting a load of germs.

When the reporter met the "typhoid nurse" in the office of M. L. Hunt, county superintendent of schools, Hamilton county, in McLeansboro, she talked of "shots" and sanitation and sickness. Out among the schools, the reporter found pupils drinking from open cisterns, the water often coming from the schoolhouse roofs. He found ancient "openwork" toilets, falling apart; apparently of pre-Civil war vintage; buzzing flies and crawling insects. In the Farris district, home of the above toilet, the assessed value of all property is $19,940. Taxing for school purposes, at the legal limit, $1 to the $100 valuation, the school can get $199.40 per year. There are 18 pupils enrolled. That's $11.77 each. The school asked for $852.83 state aid last year. But the state, due to a legislative faux pas, is far back in its payments to the starving schools of the state.

Important Waterway

The Suez canal, opened in 1869, has a length of 101 miles, and a minimum width of 147 feet, 8 inches. The maximum draught of water allowed for vessels using the canal is 32 feet. The average time for transit through the canal is 15 hours 20 minutes. The canal is owned by a company, and Great Britain holds a controlling interest in the company.

Just around the Corner

EVEN big-city folks must have their "neighborhood stores"! Most of them would no more think of going down town to fight their way through the crowds in search of a roast for dinner than they would of walking to the factory to get a pair of shoes.

City women know that their neighborhood stores can supply them just what they want — and that, in most cases, the service is more alert and friendly.

The same thing is true of this "neighborhood". Our merchants—the men whose ads you read in this paper—are in position to furnish your home with the best and most popular brands of goods. Not only can they save you money, but they gladly relieve you of a lot of worry and loss of time.

From Springfield

by Bernice T. Van der Vries
Representative Seventh District

When the occupational tax in Illinois was increased from 2 per cent to 3 per cent by a vote of the Assembly, the final chapter was written in a battle which began the 9th of January. In the House it was the 6th on that measure. Five efforts were made for the 102 votes necessary to make the increased tax effective upon passage of the bill. Only 94 votes could be secured. The bill was amended by striking the emergency clause, and was then passed July 1st. The which was passed makes the 3 cent tax effective until January 1st.

By the "folks back home" only do not realize that for every vote upon, there are dozens expressed in the roll call. While the lines were sharply drawn in the tax battle, which was achieved by serious relief. The bill, the main reasons for the present tax, added, would be sufficient to that economies in welcome, should be attempted have increased cost; third, their firstized State Budget in the members before Hemare appropriated. moving some time before the bitence. dered thru many de. Dr. Carax bills is softened. After the passage of aliation was display- rity in a motion by floor leader Adamowski to table the Permanent Registration Bills. Immediately Rep. Schnackenberg, the sponsor of the Chicago Permanent Registration Bill asked for recognition. Speaker Devine ruled that a motion to table was not debatable and the clerk was ordered to call the roll. The "gag rule" was applied in full force, and nobody was allowed to speak on roll call. Members hooted and yelled. Rep. Searle, Republican, jumped on his desk demanding recognition. One wondered whether representative government really existed in Illinois. Members of long standing recalled that it was the most flagrant demonstration against the rights of members ever witnessed. Reverberations were heard and shouted of the Bidwell affair.

After adjournment the Republicans held a conference and decided to call off the filibuster since the Permanent Registration Bills in the House were dead, but gave notice that it would be resumed if members of the minority party were not treated fairly.

Other events of the week were, first, the Adamowski resolution demanding punishment of Representatives Lottie H. O'Neill and Richard Lyons for a resolution introduced by them criticizing the President and the Governor. The resolution was withdrawn after Rep. Lyons apologized; second, House Bill No. 260 by Rep. Foster and House Bills No. 198 and No. 199 by Rep. Van der Vries were passed by the senate. All are school finance bills. Third, Senator Baumrucker took the seat from which Senator Bidwell was ousted. Fourth, four-year terms for officials of all municipalities outside of Chicago were provided in bills which passed the House. Fifth, appropriation Bills of the Administration were pushed along despite efforts of the Republicans to have them itemized.

From now on there will be three sessions a day in the House. Bills will be jammed thru with many good measures tabled and had ones sliding thru in a hectic rush to finish the session by July 1st.

MARLEY

Miss Iva Gillett

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Missionary society was held Thursday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Kercheval. The program consisted of readings and music. A special solo was sung by Miss Clara Sproat, accompanied by Mrs. Adella Sproat. Supper was served to sixty-five.

Mrs. Fred Blodgett is spending a few days in Michigan with relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Kase and Mrs. Lydia Kase of Joliet spent last Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kase.

Mr. Erwin Lynk of Chicago, is a guest in the home of his sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Kercheval. Billy Morrison, Bob Sproat and Burnette Gorham were guests of Jack Bruer in Joliet Sunday.

Miss Emily Anderson has secured a position for the coming year as teacher in a school near Manhattan. Memorial day services were given at the Homer church last Sunday afternoon. Quite a number from the Marley community attended.

The Marley school, under the direction of Mrs. Mary Carlucci, gave an entertainment for the community last Wednesday evening.

Next Sunday evening a special meeting will be held by the young people at the church. There will be installation services to induct the newly elected members in which Clara Bush as past president presents the gavel to Russell Lauffer. The vice-president is Evelyn Cutler. The chairman of the program and social committee's will make report to the society about the work for the coming summer. It is important that all members attend. A social hour will be held immediately after the meeting.

Mrs. Mervin Moore has been ill at her home the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Marshall and Mr. and Mrs. Adalbert Cleveland attended the twenty-fifth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Cleveland in Orland last Thursday.

Ancient Currency

"Ring money" was used by the Egyptians. The rings of precious metals were circular but a slight gap was left, that the rings could be formed into a chain. This substitute for money found its way to western Europe and the British Isles.

NEWS of the WEEK

Staggering Blow To N R A
In a day fraught with disaster to the "New Deal" Chief Justice Hughes read the unanimous opinion of the United States Supreme Court, to the effect that the National Industrial Recovery Act is unconstitutional, that it is an unlawful delegation of powers by Congress to the President and an invasion of the authority of the State. So sweeping is the decision that it is considered doubtful by constitutional authorities that the N R A can be reconstituted in such form that it will survive the test of the highest court. To add further confusion to the Administration's program, the Court also ruled that the President had violated his constitutional powers in summarily discharging William E. Humphrey as Federal Trade Commissioner, and the Frazier-Lemke Farm Moratorium Act, which had the President's approval, is unconstitutional.

The Northwest Kidnaping
Faced with penalty of death if caught, kidnapers held 9-year-old George Weyerhaeuser, heir to the vast lumber fortune of the Northwest for $200,000 ransom. While a hurriedly organized corps of Federal operatives kept their hands off until distracted parents could make arrangements to pay the ransom, plans proceeded nevertheless to weave a net to bag the band who stole the lad almost from under the eyes of the Weyerhaeuser chauffeur as he waited for him to come from school. Government "G" men, pointing to the Lindbergh case, declare the kidnapers will never escape, however long the chase may last.

Ford Raises Minimum Wage
The filing of the Ford Motor Company's 1934 balance sheet with the Commissioner of Corporations in Massachusetts constitutes the only available clue to Ford profits. The report was encouraging-profit and loss surplus was $580,276,391-an increase of $3,033,322 over the previous year. Reserves had risen by $3,101,150. These figures indicate a profit of $6,860,462 for 1934, the first in four years. Ford workers last week had a chance to rejoice in the return to black ink. The minimum wage of $5 per 8-hour day was boosted to 65¢. This increase helps 126,000 employees in Ford and Lincoln plants, boosts the total payroll $2,000,000 a month. Interviewed late last week Henry Ford blamed our troubles on the war. "These war-makers are just...criminals-public enemies!...It was these war-makers who brought on that wild orgy of stock speculation, you know. Now I never invested a single dollar in anyone's stocks. Why should I? Why should you?"

Triple A Races

At River Road June 9

The entry list for the AAA Auto races to be staged at the River road North Ave. Speedway here, Sunday, June 9 promises to be the largest ever recorded for a mid-western championship race meeting, according to Earl Newberry, manager of the local track.

When rain forced the postponement of the May 12 opening event to June 9, the entries were again opened to permit many of the Indianapolis drivers to compete and these added to the 35 already signed will make a field that will give the speed fans an afternoon of thrills and excitement.

With the increase in the field, it has been decided to increase the prize money allotment and add one or two other events to allow the added entrants a chance to win some of the purses.

Such outstanding pilots as Maynard Clark, Ted Horn, Emil Andres, Johnny Sawyer and Shorty Drexler will find new competition in the mid west circuit from Doc Mac Kenzie, a new eastern speed king Ken Fowlers and several of the newcomers in speedland.

All the events at the speedway here are conducted under the sanction of the AAA Contest Board and call for Class A cars and drivers only and no midget events are included in any of the speed programs.

The new track promises to be in even better condition than last year and new speed marks are expected to be hung up when the gasoline jockeys make their tests on June 9.

CHICAGO WORLD'S FAIR DEMOLITION PUSHED SALVAGE SOLD THROUGHOUT THE COUNTRY

Demolition of the buildings and equipment owned by A Century of Progress is producing salvage in the form of over 200,000 feet of plaster board, plywood, and lumber each day, it was announced yesterday by R. A. Goldman of Barker, Goldman, and Lubin, wrecking company in charge of the work.

Last week nine carloads of material were shipped to lumber yards in Indiana, Michigan, Kentucky, and Iowa. Over 100 carloads of structural steel has been sold to a New York firm to be shipped on barges through the Great Lakes.

Five hundred men are employed on the Fair grounds by the wrecking company. Mr. Goldman stated that when the daylight time lengthens, the wrecking will be placed on a two shift basis. He said that when lake traffic opens freight steamers will be loaded from the Century of Progress docks.

A new excavating shovel especially designed for tearing out concrete pillars has been ordered for excavation work. The shovel, Diesel powered, will be the only one of its kind in operation.

All of the structures occupying 400 acres must be cleared away by the end of next November.

NEW LENOX

Building repair business is on the up-grade, as reflected in the increase of orders the local Dad & Lad Roofing Co., have lately received. Their roofing material shipments have shown a noted increase the past few months.

The Will County Farm Bureau Baseball team is planning to hold a series of dances in the Colonial Hall this summer. A couple of dances are scheduled for June.

The New Lenox Board of Education has re-engaged the present faculty of the New Lenox public school for the ensuing year. The teachers are: Principal Orrin Thorsen, Miss Ina McFarland, Miss Nellie Brandt and Miss E. Delaney.

The annual Memorial Day Exercises held Thursday morning in the New Lenox M. E. church were well attended. Following the exercises a line of march was formed in which the Legionnaires, Boy and Girl Scouts, school children and the public joined, and proceeded to the Maplewood cemetery where the soldier's graves were decorated. There are a number of soldiers who fought in the war of 1812, buried in this cemetery.

The Powers-Thompson Construction Co., are preparing to start paving operations here. Their concrete mixing machine will be placed in the Fink Coal yard. A pipe line has been laid from Hickory creek to the mixing plant.

FRANKFORT

Mrs. W. V. Hedges gave a post-nuptial shower in her home Friday night in honor of Mrs. Emil Tewes. The honored guest received many lovely gifts.

The Foursome Quartet of Chicago Heights, will render several selections at the Frankfort Alumni banquet next Friday evening.

The Frankfort Band played at the Mokena Memorial Day exercises Thursday morning. A number of Frankfort people also attended the exercises.

The Frankfort M. E. Ladies Aid furnished refreshments at the Memorial Day celebration in the local school grounds.

Mokena Wins

Mokena Tromps Over St. Thad's ACES-UP By Williams

Yowie! And did the boys sock that old potato around the ole diamond Sunday. The boys took one of the star teams of Joliet to camp, beating them 17 to 13. Everybody was hitting the ole ball and Wes got up and winged a homer over the sheds.

The boys were sure glad to beat these lads as they were plenty good. Mokena scored first and held their lead thruout the game. Well folks, the boys said they could do it and that's what they did.

William H. F. Knees, seventy-nine, Moline florist for 48 years, died of heart disease at his home.

Judge Charles M. Webber of Champaign County court ruled that the wet and dry election in Mahomet is void and the retail sale of liquor is not illegal.

The estate of Frank Carlson, retired Andover bachelor who died in 1930, has been closed. In accordance with his will the estate was divided equally among 22 cousins, each of whom received approximately $500.

Mrs. Alvina Oldenburg, fifty years old, of Beecher, and her daughter, Mrs. Evelyn Helmke, thirty-two years old, of Crete, were killed when their automobile was struck by a Chicago & Eastern Illinois passenger train at Crete.

Mrs. F. W. Heckenkamp, fifty-nine, wife of F. W. Heckenkamp, head of the Western Catholic union and mother of State Representative Joe Heckenkamp, died in Quincy. She is survived by Mr. Heckenkamp, four daughters, and five sons.

Full military honors were accorded in Aurora at the funeral of Frank Pinney, eighty-eight years old, pioneer resident of that town and the last surviving man of Company C, One Hundred and Twenty-fourth Illinois Volunteers, which served during the Civil war.

At a state convention in Decatur, attended by several national leaders, the Socialists of Illinois proposed a new policy in an effort to draw farmer, labor, and other discontented groups together to make their organization a third party contender. The state Illinois Socialists voted to discard the "Socialist" label and become a "federated party."

The Elgin board of education formally ratified an agreement to retain two members of the Elgin high school faculty in whose behalf 1,000 students went on strike. The strike was ended when the board bowed to the will of students. Those for whom the students struck are T. A. Larsen, assistant principal, and Clifton E. Adams, director of athletics.

Midwest farmers were warned by W. P. Flint of the state natural history survey and the experiment station at Urbana that chinch bugs still loom up as a serious menace to corn and small grain crops. He has completed a survey of the chinch bug situation in Illinois and expects the 1935 losses to run high. Nevertheless, Mr. Flint does not believe the damage will be so great as it was last year when farmers in this state suffered losses estimated at $40,000,000.

Illinois artists were invited to enter an open competition for commissions to paint murals in nine new post office buildings in the state by the regional committee of the procurement division of the federal treasury department. The sum of $4,696 is to be spent on the decorations. Post office locations and sums appropriated for them are: Vandallia, $750; Melrose Park, $650; Carthage, $470; Moline, $1,100; East Moline, $500; East Alton, $300; Gillespie, $320; Wood River, $240, and Fairfield, $240.

Work on the $700,000 Lockport power plant, rehabilitation project of the Chicago Sanitary district, is 60 per cent completed and installation of the two new turbines included in the program will be made before July 15, it was announced by Horace P. Ramey, assistant chief engineer for the district. The project, planned to modernize the 23-year-old plant, was begun in November, 1934, with the aid of $230,000 in PWA funds. It is expected to have the new units in partial operation this year and operating at full capacity in 1936.

Howard L. Scott, Lake county recorder who has been trying unsuccessfully since last December to resign as postmaster of Fox Lake, had better luck in quitting as chairman of the Lake county Republican central committee. Scott submitted his resignation at a meeting of the executive committee and it was accepted, along with a resolution which praised his chairmanship during the last year and his membership for the last 21 years. Ralph Pihl of Zion, a deacon in the church of Overseer Wilbur Glen Voliva, was appointed acting chairman pending a meeting of the full committee later.

Downstate school districts are entitled to a larger proportionate share of the state school distributive fund than they are now getting, Attorney General Otto Kerner ruled. He gave his opinion to Senator Thomas P. Gunning of Princeton, chairman of a subcommittee of the legislature holding hearings on the bill of the Illinois State Teachers' association that schools outside of Cook county should be paid $3,574,049 more from the state treasury. The sum is based on the increase in recent years of Cook county's share of the distributive fund. Kerner held that State Auditor Edward J. Barrett is in error in his manner of allocating the ten-and-a-half-million-dollar fund.

Col. Henry B. Davidson, ninety-one, former state commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, died at his home in Springfield, after a week's illness. Mr. Davidson formerly was city commissioner of public health and a member of the board of education. The widow and two sons survive.

Robert Simpson, assistant recreational supervisor at the St. Charles State School for Boys, was seriously injured when he was struck on the head during an attempted escape of five inmates. Officials of the school rounded up the boys before they succeeded in escaping from school territory.

ITALIAN troops are still being sent to the Abyssinian frontier, though the prospect of war has lessened. Here are seen some of them in Italian Somaliland dressed in the minimum of uniform and wearing their new tropical helmets, for the climate is exceedingly warm there.

BEDTIME STORY FOR CHILDREN

DANNY OVERHEARS SOME TALK

LITTLE by little the shakes left Danny Meadow Mouse. Not that Danny was no longer afraid. No, indeed! He was very much afraid. He still couldn't see anything for him but to starve or else furnish Billy Mink with a dinner, and of course he didn't want to do either of those things. Certainly not. But having had time to think a little he realized that for the time being he was quite safe. Billy Mink couldn't get at him because that knothole through which he had squeezed into that hollow log was too small for Billy to get even his head in. Had it been Shadow the Weasel instead of Billy Mink—well, it isn't pleasant to think what might have happened in that case. You know, Shadow is much smaller than Billy Mink.

So after awhile Danny stopped shaking. He began to wonder just where Billy Mink was. Billy hadn't made a sound for some time. He could shut his eyes and picture Billy hiding just within good jumping distance of that knothole. That ought to have been enough. But it wasn't. He wanted to know where Billy was. He stole a little nearer the knothole so as to peek out. He was very quiet about it. Yes, indeed, he was very quiet about it. He didn't make the tiniest sound.

Just as he got near enough to see out in the moonlight a little he heard a voice. It set that poor little heart of his to going pit-a-pat again. It was the voice of Hooty the Owl, and you know there is no one of whom Danny has greater fear than Hooty the Owl. From the sound Danny knew that Hooty was in the top of a tree very close by.

"Now, how did he know that I am in here?" thought Danny. "Seems as if everybody I fear knows I am somewhere around and is looking for me."

Of course this wasn't so, but it is no wonder Danny felt so after all he had been through. Hooty was talking in a low tone. He was talking to Mrs. Hooty. It didn't take Danny long to find that out. Danny listened. He listened with all his might.

"I've been all over the Green Meadows and didn't see a sign of Danny Meadow Mouse," said Hooty. Danny would have laughed at that had it not been for the memory of Billy Mink hiding somewhere just outside.

"What are you watching for here?" continued Hooty. "No one lives around here."

"Sh!" warned Mrs. Hooty. "It may be true that no one lives around here but unless my eyes are crossed and my ears are no longer to be trusted, I both caught a glimpse of and heard some one over near that old log just as I arrived a few minutes ago. When eyes and ears tell me the same thing I take notice. Some one is hidden right down there and I'm going to stay right here, until I find out who it is."

QUESTION BOX

by ED WYNN, The Perfect Fool

Dear Mr. Wynn:

A friend of mine, who just came from Los Angeles, in an automobile, said he saw part of a railroad track under water when he was coming through Idaho. He said he heard a train whistle and he realized it was up to him to save the train so he waved a "clothes-pin" and when the engineer saw it he stopped the train. Sounds like applesauce to me, don't it to you?

Yours truly,
B. HAYYE.

Answer: I understand your friend thoroughly. The railroad track was under water, he waved a "clothes-pin" and the engineer stopped the train. Very simple—"clothes-pin" means a wash out on the line.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

We had an argument at our house last night about young men getting married. Some of the folks said that most of the boys who marry when they are very, very young, are usually dark haired. Is that true?

Yours truly,
JENNY RAYTOR.

Answer: It is not true. You will find that boys who marry when they are extremely young are generally all light headed.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I know a man who told me he was going to get married just for the fun of it. He did get married but got a divorce a year and a half later. What was the idea of that?

Truly yours,
AL. E. MONEE.

Answer: He told you he got married for the fun of it. He got married and then got a divorce. That's where the fun comes in.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

One of my neighbors has a son who is now about twenty-two years of age. For the past ten years he has been a lazy, shiftless boy. He ran away from home three weeks ago and yesterday his father got a letter from him say-

UPON YOUR PRAYERS

By ANNE CAMPBELL

NOW in the turmoil of day,
Weary and fevered with cares,
I turn to my comfort and stay,
Leaning upon your prayers.

Often, surrounded by noise,

Hampered by worldly affairs,
I can taste of the spirit's joys,
Leaning upon your prayers.

Over the clang of the street,
The moon of your love for me fares,
And life is made suddenly sweet,
Leaning upon your prayers.

FOR THE CHEESE LOVER

WITH the numerous varieties of cheese on the market—to name them would take a column space, with a word about their composition—one may have something different for every day in the year.

A most tasty dish to serve when something a bit more nourishing than the plain scalloped eggs is required is a few tablespoonfuls of creamy cheese added to the hot eggs; stir until well mixed.

Serve the sweet, juicy early cabbage cooked whole, with the hard center removed, then cut into pie-shaped pieces on a chop plate; serve with a white sauce to which a cupful of finely minced cheese has been added. Be sure the cheese is well melted before serving. This makes a most tasty and attractive as well as a nourishing dish.

The cheese supper dish has been given so often that it seems as if every one should have the recipe, yet here it is again for those who have never seen it:

Cheese Supper Dish.

Spread stale bread with butter and place in a shallow baking dish as many slices as will be needed. Cover each slice thickly with finely minced rich cheese and when enough is prepared pour over a custard mixture, using two eggs and a pint of milk with salt to season. Bake in the oven at a low heat. The dish will be like a fluffy omelet, most attractive and appetizing. Serve hot.

Cheese Roll.

To one cake of cream cheese softened with cream add one cupful of good American cheese grated, a dash of red pepper, one-half cupful of chopped stuffed olives. Make into a roll and decorate with thin slices of stuffed olives. Serve on a dainty plate with a cheese knife.

In choosing cheese for cookery be sure that you buy a rich one that will melt without becoming stringy. Overcooking will make most cheese stringy, so great care should be used when heat is applied. To test cheese for richness take a bit in the mouth and press it with the tongue to the roof of the mouth. If it melts easily you may be sure it is well ripened and rich cheese.

Natural colored crash makes an interesting open-front jacket with flaring box pleats in the back. It also trims the V back neckline of the short sleeved dress of navy wool crepe. The navy felt hat is banded with pigskin.

American Federation of Labor

The American Federation of Labor was organized in 1881. Until 1886, it was known as the Federation of Trades and Labor Unions of the United States and Canada. At that time there was no executive council and president as there was after 1886. There was a president and vice president of a legislative committee. Samuel Gompers served as president of this committee from 1881 to 1886. He was then elected president of the American Federation of Labor and remained its president until his death, with the exception of 1895.

Brazil Now Has Its "Green Shirts"

TO THE Black Shirts of Italy, the Brown Shirts of Germany and the Silver Shirts of the United States must now be added the Green Shirts of Brazil. They are the latest addition to the Fascist family of the world and call themselves "Integralists." OUR DAY OF WORSHIP

LESSON TEXT—Psalm 100; John 4:20-24; Colossians 3:15-17.

GOLDEN TEXT—God is a Spirit; and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth.—John 4:24.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Lord's Day. JUNIOR TOPIC—Our Lord's Day.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Should We Do on Sunday?

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—What We Do When We Really Worship.

I. The Origin of the Sabbath (Gen. 2:2, 3).

When God had completed the heavens and the earth he desisted from creative action. Since his creative work was finished in six days, he ceased from action on the seventh day, which was, therefore, called the Sabbath or rest day. The Sabbath was not a Mosaic but an Edenic institution. It is older by centuries than the Sabbath given to Israel at Sinai.

II. The Sabbath Given to Israel (Exod. 20:8-11).

It was made a peculiar sign of covenant relation between the chosen people and God (Deut. 5:11-15). It enjoins a twofold obligation:

1. Work through six days (v. 9). Work was God's primary thought for man (Gen. 2:15). "It expresses man's normal condition. The command to work six days is just as binding as the command to rest on the seventh day."

2. Rest on the seventh day (v. 10). There must be cessation from work on the Sabbath. Since God gave the example and then sanctified the day, it should be kept holy. It was not only to give relief to the body, but to be a time when man's thoughts would be turned to God. It was designed to keep fresh in man's mind the consciousness of God and his mercies. It was thus made for man's well-being (Mark 2:27).

III. The First Day of the Week (Acts 20:7).

The early Christians met on the first day of the week to break the bread of fellowship and to worship God. Paul used this assembly as an occasion to preach the gospel. Doubtless this became the day of rest and worship in honor of the Lord's resurrection.

IV. True Worship Taught (John 4:20-24).

1. True worship is not confined to a particular place (vv. 21, 22). The place is unimportant. The all-important thing is to have the right conception of God as revealed through the Jews. Since God is omnipresent, the true worshiper can hold intercourse with him anywhere and everywhere.

2. It must be spiritual (vv. 23, 24). God is Spirit. Therefore, only those who through regeneration have a spiritual nature can truly worship God.

V. A Psalm of Worship (Ps. 100).

1. Whom to worship (v. 1). Worship should be rendered to God, for he alone is worthy.

2. The spirit of worship (v. 2). Worship should be joyful. This joy should be manifest in the singing of praises to God.

3. Who should worship (v. 1). All the world should worship, not merely the Jews, but all nations. The peculiar mission of the Jews was to call all nations to the worship of the true God.

4. Reasons for worship (vv. 3-5). God should be worshipped because he is God. Being God, he is our Creator, Preserver, and Savior.

VI. The Soul Poise of the True Worshiper (Col. 3:15-17).

1. Peace rules the life (v. 15). The one joined to Christ by faith and resting in his finished work is at peace with God and should be at peace with all members of the body whose head is Christ.

2. Gives thanks to God (v. 15). In spite of all troubles which beset the Christian, they should all be drowned in his constant giving of thanks to God.

3. Christ's Word to dwell in the heart (v. 16). It is not enough to know the truth; the very words of Christ must be made real in experience. They must be made to dwell, that is, be at home in the heart.

4. The definite function of the Christian (v. 16). It is to teach and warn others. Christ's words dwelling in the believer will result in blessing to others. The Christian should always maintain a joyous attitude.

5. The supreme motive (v. 17). All that the Christian does and says should be for the glory of Christ. The enthronement of Christ as the Lord of life means that all the Christian's duties are performed with the consciousness of union with Christ. He knows that his life belongs to Christ, who died that he might live.

Be Cheerful

What do the flowers say, that nod at you from field and garden and lane? I think they say "Be cheerful; look as bright as you can. Leave off frowning, and cheer other people up; smiles cost nothing, but can often lift the shadows and bless the heart."

Friendship

Make no friendship with an angry man; and with a furious man thou shalt not go.

Let thou learn his ways, and get a snare to thy soul.—Prov. 22:24, 25

Nominees for the Hall of Fame

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

ON JUNE 1 a group of 108 eminent citizens of the United States will begin scanning a list of 76 names and between that date and October 15 they will decide which of the 76 are worthy of being characterized as "great Americans." For this year the eighth quinquennial election to the Hall of Fame for Great Americans is being held and the names of the men and women chosen by the 108 electors will be inscribed upon bronze tablets in the Hall of Fame building at New York university. Later they will be further honored when portrait busts of them are unveiled with special ceremonies in that patriotic shrine.

For election to the Hall of Fame a candidate must receive a three-fifths majority of the electors or 65 votes. Of the 76 who will be considered for election this year, 23 are automatically on the ballot because they received 20 or more votes in the election of 1930. The remaining 53, 10 of whom are women, have been designated by the public, in the last five years. Each of those named, to be eligible for election, must have been dead for at least 25 years.

Founding of Oxford University

Traditionally, the founding of Oxford university was by Alfred the Great, about 871, but the authentic origin was the result of a quarrel between Henry II and Thomas a Becket, about 1164, when the king forbade English clerks to study at Paris, and they returning, boomed the school at Oxford. The earliest document giving the school of Oxford the title of university was in 1201.

COOLIDGE SHOWN AS SHREWD, BUT KINDLY HEARTED

A Calvin Coolidge who sold his cast-off clothing to a second-hand man, who chased a bootlegger out of his office, and who let a window sill burn in his house to warn his boys to be careful with candles, is revealed in an installment of Grace Coolidge's, "The Real Calvin Coolidge," in Goodhousekeeping Magazine.

John Coolidge confesses his indignation at finding a newspaper photograph of his father in shirt sleeves, with saw in hand, pretending to build a toy motor car.

"Father," John says, "was running for office, as was his custom in the fall of the year. A cameraman had induced the pose, but it was my car. I could scarcely believe my eyes."

George A. Dragon, Northampton barber, unwittingly gets back at John for telling tales on his father.

"One time," Dragon contributes, "I asked about his sons, who were in school at Mercersburg."

"I guess they must be all right," Mr. Coolidge replied, "they're always wanting something."

Ralph W. Hemenway, Coolidge's law-partner in Northampton for 18 years, who has never before given an interview or written about him, recalls that he once received the following note from President Coolidge from the White House:

"My Dear Mr. Hemenway:

"You have at Hampton safety deposit 2 Lib Bonds $50 each. See if any are due Sept. 15 current and if so have Tr. Co. collect them and credit my acct."

"Yours,

"Calvin Coolidge."

The interest due was $2.12.

Hemenway recalls another occasion, however, that brings out the late President's kind-heartedness and liberality. When Hemenway was in need of funds owing to the closing of a local bank Coolidge gave him a check for $5,000 and offered as much more as he might need.

War on Wild Boars

Hunting wild boars, a dangerous sport in any region, is a grim business to the ranchers of Nequen territory in the Andean foothills, says the Montreal Herald. Wild boars by the hundreds are playing havoc with flocks of sheep and the ranchers have organized systematic hunts. Cornering the animals in a difficult business, however, because the wild pigs frequent the fastnesses of the foothills, not easy of access. Specially trained packs of hounds are used to trail the boars and bring them into the open to face the rifle fire of the massed ranchers. Added to the difficulties are the expenses of the hunt, casualties among the dogs run high. The area most affected is in the department of Los Lagos, the lake region on the Argentine side of the Andes, where great packs of hounds are constantly on patrol.

WATCH YOUR KIDNEYS!

Be Sure They Properly Cleanse the Blood

YOUR kidneys are constantly filtering impurities from the blood stream. But kidneys get functionally disturbed—lag in their work—fail to remove the poisonous body wastes.

Then you may suffer nagging headache, attacks of dizziness, burning, scanty or too frequent urination, getting up at night, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains; feel "all worn out."

Don't delay! For the quicker you get rid of these poisons, the better your chances of good health.

Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are for the kidneys only. They tend to promote normal functioning of the kidneys; should help them pass off the irritating poisons. Doan's are recommended by users the country over. Get them from any druggist.

His Instructions

The broker was very sick, and at times delirious. In one of his lucid moments he asked the nurse what the last readings had shown his temperature to be. "One hundred and one,"
she said. "Good," said the patient.
"When it gets to 101½, sell."

Not All Blank Verse

In the main, "Hamlet" is written entirely in blank verse. The exceptions are the scenes in which Hamlet feigns insanity, those in which he converses with Rosencrans and Guildenstern, with the actors and with Osric and the scene with the grave diggers. All these are in prose.

Lighthouse Illumination

Most of the American lighthouses guarding ships against coastal rocks have now run the complete gamut of lighting in the last 200 years. They began with fish oil and then proceeded through sperm oil, rapeseed or colza oil, lard oil, vaporized kerosene with incandescent mantles and finally electricity upon which main dependence is put nowadays.

Her Recognition

Small Elizabeth and her mother were walking down the street when they saw an urchin approaching them.
Elizabeth stuck out her tongue. When they had gone on, her mother inquired
"Why did you stick out your tongue at that little boy we just passed."
There was a pause while Elizabeth considered. "Why?" she replied, at length. "Why, mother, to show him I recognized him!"
